

The Golden Rule Dry Goods Company's

Annual February Cash Clearance Sale

12 - GREAT SPECIALS - 12

- FOR -

Tomorrow Tuesday Morning at 9 o'clock

100 Pieces new Cotton Challies, 29 inches wide, extra weight, best quality; regular 12c value. On Sale.	100 new Window Shades, opaque, linen, staple green; a big value.	20 Pieces good Curtain Scrims, assorted patterns; values to 20c yard. A big value at.	Special value in yard wide Black Satin Messaline: Tuesday only.	1,000 Yards best quality Percales, worth 15c a yard; all new patterns, light and dark grounds. On Sale Special.	25 Dozen Ladies' HouseDresses. The "Best Ever" at the price. A value at.	10 Dozen Ladies' White Lawn Waists, odds and ends slightly soiled. Must be sold. A big snap at.	NEW MOIRE BIBONB. Fifty pieces, all shades and black and white, 6 inches wide; worth 50c yard, on sale for.	3 Dozen Men's Paisley jamas, in good Madras, a $1.25 value; odds and ends. Special Clearance Price.	One lot of Ladies' Long Kimonos, made of good quality Challies; Per-sie pattern; value to $1.25. Choice of lot only.	Just received a new line of Ladies' Grecy Mixture Walking Skirts, the best ever shown at the price. A Big Special at.	Special value in Yard Wide Black Taffeta Silk, Tuesday only. Eight Yards to a Customer.
PER YARD	EACH	PER YARD	PER YARD	PER YARD	EACH	EACH	PER YARD	SUIT	CHOICE	CHOICE	PER YARD
6c	29c	9c	69c	11c	19c	25c	25c	49c	49c	98c	59c

The Evening Herald.

Published by

THE EVENING HERALD, INC.
GEORGE S. VALLIANT, Manager
H. B. HENING, Editor

Published every afternoon except Sunday at 124 North Second Street, Albuquerque, N. M.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Albuquerque, N. M., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

One month by mail or carrier, 15c
One week by carrier ..... 15c
One year by mail or carrier
in advance ..... 5.00

Telephones:

Business Office ..... 924
Editorial Room ..... 167

THE STRONGEST MAN AVAILABLE.

either offense, since there is a very considerable proportion of open crimes for which no one is punished. To the list of "accidental offenders" should be attached a list of those accidentally caught and convicted.

The polite attitude of society toward the criminal is singularly inconsistent. He is studied as a sociological problem, or passed by with indifference and contempt. If he has fallen from a high altitude he is looked upon with interest, but still regarded as totally apart from law-abiding humanity.

It is a wholesome thing for the ninety and nine to recall occasionally that the convict is simply a human being, not much coarser or more sinful than the ran or free citizens. His weaknesses, his foibles, his blunders have caught up with him—that's all.

THE SCALE OF ABSOLUTE JUSTICE.

SPECULATION as to the future political aspirations of A. A. Jones, first assistant secretary of the interior, probably will be set at rest the next time Mr. Jones comes to New Mexico, which it is understood, will be during the present week. Political wiseacres had worked out a plan for President Wilson to follow whereby the president was to name Secretary of the interior Lane to the supreme bench, thus leaving open the way for the executive to name Mr. Jones to the cabinet post, and thus eliminating him as a possible candidate for the senatorship from this state. The appointment of Mr. Brandeis indicates that the president did not fall in with this plan, if he knew about it at all; and while it does not in the least lessen Mr. Jones' chances for a cabinet post in the future, a distinction to which his ability and public service fully entitle him, it does stop the gossip of those who would seek to lessen his chances for a senatorial nomination by putting forward the probability of his immediate selection for the cabinet.

Mr. Jones, measured by every standard, is the strongest man available in the Democratic party for the senatorial nomination. The strongest man the Democrats have available will be required to win in the coming election.

It is assumed that the Democratic leaders of the state will attend the committee meeting called for Friday in Santa Fe. Whether Mr. Jones is present at that meeting, and whether he is actively seeking the senatorial nomination or not, the leaders gathered in this meeting can take no wiser course than to encourage Mr. Jones to become an active candidate for this nomination and pledge him their united and vigorous support.

THE NINETY AND NINE.

ONE out of every hundred persons in the state of New York was convicted of crime during the year.

Justice, as embodied in statutes, necessarily depends largely on chance and circumstance for its administration, and to what extent the Ninety and Nine, in New York or in New Mexico, should concentrate themselves or their heavy task for being free of the taint of discovered crime, one cannot attempt to estimate.

Social position renders many immune to the temptations that lay others by the heels or saves them from the penalties of wrong-doing. Getting caught, so far as the records indicate, should stand above every other part of the value of the monopoly originates in the community, and the people's right to a share in the benefits is therefore fundamental.

The New York public service commission had under consideration two years ago the question whether a hydro-electric company had the sole purpose of putting into (Chambers) the bad graces of the government of the United States. Villa comes back in the diplomatic style with the assertion that Chambers himself is conspiring with the murderers of Americans in order to put him (Villa) in the light of being the sole trouble of Mexico.

What is this but prompt recourse to the tactics of the more highly "civilized" tactics of the diplomats of Europe? When passenger ships were sunk in the ocean a little while ago, Germany charged that the allies were sinking neutral ships in order to paint Germany black before the humane world, while the allies charged that Germany was doing the sinking in order to draw neutral nations into a state of siege and so prevent the further shipment of ammunition abroad.

But in both cases the explanations are not the things—they always come after the damage is done. The constant concern of the world is the fact of wilful killing, for which somebody is responsible. The principal satisfaction in knowing who the killer is is either to brand him with his right name or to capture him and prevent repetitions of his atrocities. And that is small comfort to an outraged sense of humanity. It is worth very little to know that if a man kills he will be arrested. It would be worth a great deal to know that nothing had gone out of the world like cannibalism and the burning of progressive thinkers.

Is Virtue a Political Asset?
(Hartford Courant)

Governor Nat Harris of Georgia celebrated his seventieth birthday anniversary one day last week and told a newspaper man that he had never paid a game of cards in his life. The Savannah Morning News asked the following day how, considering the fact that the governor never played a game of cards, could he hope to hold the popular vote. The possible vote seems to be an important thing to regard in Georgia politics, and virtue thus goes unrewarded.

Control of water power in New Mexico has not yet become an issue. As compared with other public land and forest reserve states our resources in water power are limited, and we have been in the attitude of an engineer for development of such as we have which probably would have made popular any utilization of these resources, regardless of regulation of the interests of the future. Mr. Smith's paper will tell us exactly what thoughtful reader share his eagerness for this development if it is not in line with public regulation. "Regard to the state of absolute justice and sound economy."

Control of water power in New Mexico is not the source of the average power charged for electric energy to both customers and consumers. While the purpose of these terms is the return to the government, as will be seen, is determined by the receipts of the operator. Here the ordinary plainly thought we prompt and complete development and low rates to the public rather than revenue to the government.

The most notable sign of the times is the general acceptance of the principle of public control. A recent editor in the Stone & Webster Public Service Journal thus sums up the whole issue:

"Still it is a fact that public regulation has come to stay, and when its methods are reduced to the scale of absolute justice and sound economy it should prove an immense advantage to the consumer."

"When applied to water power resources as to other public utilities, regulation is inherent in every large corporation; today the sovereign people have begun to claim a share in the benefits that naturally flow from a natural monopoly. These public utilities are in the natural-monopoly class simply because the community requires centralized serv-

Editorial Sidelights.

A Civilized Abroad.

(Detroit News)

Aha! Civilization has struck Mexico at last. Carranza states that Villa is murdering Americans for the sole purpose of putting into (Chambers) the bad graces of the government of the United States. Villa comes back in the diplomatic style with the assertion that Chambers himself is conspiring with the murderers of Americans in order to put him (Villa) in the light of being the sole trouble of Mexico.

What is this but prompt recourse to the tactics of the more highly "civilized" tactics of the diplomats of Europe? When passenger ships were sunk in the ocean a little while ago, Germany charged that the allies were sinking neutral ships in order to paint Germany black before the humane world, while the allies charged that Germany was doing the sinking in order to draw neutral nations into a state of siege and so prevent the further shipment of ammunition abroad.

But in both cases the explanations are not the things—they always come after the damage is done. The constant concern of the world is the fact of wilful killing, for which somebody is responsible. The principal satisfaction in knowing who the killer is is either to brand him with his right name or to capture him and prevent repetitions of his atrocities. And that is small comfort to an outraged sense of humanity. It is worth very little to know that if a man kills he will be arrested. It would be worth a great deal to know that nothing had gone out of the world like cannibalism and the burning of progressive thinkers.

Is Virtue a Political Asset?
(Hartford Courant)

Governor Nat Harris of Georgia celebrated his seventieth birthday anniversary one day last week and told a newspaper man that he had never paid a game of cards in his life. The Savannah Morning News asked the following day how, considering the fact that the governor never played a game of cards, could he hope to hold the popular vote. The possible vote seems to be an important thing to regard in Georgia politics, and virtue thus goes unrewarded.

Flinching Philosophy.
Most men when they have turned a threashook say "Good bye, brasins". I won't ever make ye any more! I won't fly a threash!" An people that hires him it's a job notices at right away.

Intelligent Scheme.
Guest—Landlord this hand basin of mine won't drain at all!

Landlord—Put the plug in. The plug leaks.

Philosopher.
"I have here a great invention," said Bagley, at the club.

"Yes?"

"You notice I have the switch-key of my car and my latch-key tied together."

"Surely."

"Well, you see when I'm down town in the car and I get ready to start home and can't find my switch-key, I say to myself, 'I should worry! Why should I want to go home anyway, when I can't get in the house? And so I just stay down town."

A Long Skid.
Joe Tyland, wife and children slipped down to Grimesgate in M. J. Ford, Sunday afternoon.—Washington, D. C.

Americans Of Today.

"Antonio Spachetti, Edgardo Oceguera, Hernando Blestas-

"What on earth are you reading?"

The list of American citizens killed on the last liner attacked by a submarine.

Who's Holding Stakes?

Norman Stet took a vacation Sunday as he went to La France accompanied by his girl. Someone has reported that he is studying the ergonomic marriage law of Wisconsin. Well, Norman, whatever you do remember your belt.—Watererville Department Waukon Standard.

therefore, it's simply a question of supplying enough bars to eat them all up. San Antonio rather thinks she has enough of the little beasts—or birds, or whatever they are—for the purpose.

What a bat can find to live in a mosquito is hard for a mere human to see, but there's no accounting for taste.

There's said to be a demand in New Jersey to start a few bat colonies to war against that state's famous skeeters. Old Jersey residents, however, are dubious of the outcome. They say they're afraid the skeeter might eat the bat. And, anyhow, New Jersey is inclined to the method found effective at Panama—eliminating the mosquito before he's born, by draining swamps or sprinkling them with kerosene, instead of campaigning against him afterward.

Off Again, On Again

STRICKLAND W. GILLILAN

GERMANY—HOW MANY DAYS DOES SHE WANT, ANYWAY?

—Or in Nashville Tennessee

MOTION PICTURE FILM CANNOT BE CARRIED IN CAR WITH PASSENGER

car four rods of motion picture film and placed it on the floor between the seats. In some way, presumably by a lighted match dropped by a smoker, the film was set off and an explosion occurred in which thirty-eight persons were badly burned, two fatally. As a result railroads are no longer willing to submit their customers to such a hazard.

When films are sent by express they are inspected when received for shipment and carried in the safe manner laid down by the packing rules of the interstate commerce commission.

This ruling follows that already taken by railroads of the country located in the east and middle west. A passenger on a suburban train coming out of Chicago recently carried into the combination smoking and smoking car four rods of motion picture film and placed it on the floor between the seats. In some way, presumably by a lighted match dropped by a smoker, the film was set off and an explosion occurred in which thirty-eight persons were badly burned, two fatally.

Thus far, no express company has been sued for damages, and the railroads are not liable for the damage.

Under the striking words of the leader of the American revolutionists in this comment, put there by Lord Derby, the man charged with recruiting for the army:

"The answer was the United States of America."

Meaning of course that in England every victory and the integrity of the British empire is to spur the "backers" on to subduing in the army. The shades of Nelson and other British heroes are called upon to persuade British youth and patriotism to the point where it will be ready to make this sublime sacrifice.

Tens of thousands of dollars have been spent in advertising in the newspapers and elsewhere. They have not failed, for there is today a British army of 300,000 compared to 70,000 at the outbreak of war. Yet Kitchener wants "men and more men."

What has all this got to do with the story? Just this—they have reached the end of their ingenuity in trying to get "more men" to enlist by purely British means. They have turned to their history books for inspiration and find, in the words of the immortal Washington, who one hundred and thirty-nine years ago was the most magnetic figure and soul of the Mother Country, leader of the American "traitors," "revolutionists" and "disloyal colonists" the keynote which best describes England's needs and for which they have been looking. It is contained in these words, boldly displayed on great posters stuck up throughout the British Isles:

"It is not sufficient for a man to be a passing friend and well wished to a cause. Every person should be active in some department or other, without paying too much attention to private interest." * * * Our conflict is not likely to cease so soon as every good man would wish. The measure of injury is not yet filled, and unless we can return a little to

in

the British

empire,

and

the rest

of them

are not

the same

as we were then

and now

we are